Light-skinned people living in high sunlight environments are more susceptible to the harmful UV rays of sunlight because of the lack of melanin produced in the skin. The most common risk that comes with high exposure to sunlight is the increased risk of sunburns. This increased risk has come along with the cultural practice of sunbathing, which is popular among some human populations.

Today I'm sharing a collection of light and healthy corn bread recipes perfect for Weight Watchers. I love warm-from-the oven cornbread with a bowl of chili or soup. I end up making it a few times during the cooler months. The trouble with some cornbread recipes is that they're full of sugar and fat and high in calories/WW points. If you are looking for lighter healthier classic cornbread made ...
