Shame: The Master Emotion? ABSTRACT The role of emotions in organisational life has only recently come to the attention of management scholars. Within that new attention, very little has been given to shame, just as it has been given in the social sciences in general. This paper provides an

Shame: The Master Emotion? - University of Tasmania

Master your Emotions (before they master you): The emotions you feel are your bodies way of signalling you that something is right or wrong in your life. If you feel happy, things internally are good. If you feel sad, something may be off balance. Something may need to be examined or changed. Every emotion has a message for you. It is a signal.

Master your Emotions (before they master you)

Mastering Your Emotions: To become a master of emotions you must learn to direct and guide your emotional world, rather than have it direct you and your actions. In this regard, as a pair of opposite mental principles, your reasoning mind is a masculine principle and your emotions are a feminine principle.
